

TRIOLOGICAL SOCIETY

Disclosure Statement for The Laryngoscope Editor-in-Chief Applicants

The Triological Society asks that any applicant for the position of Editor-in-Chief, The Laryngoscope, disclose all relationships (financial and other interests) in the spirit of total transparency. Generally, a conflict of interest could be said to exist when individuals have material interests that could influence or could be perceived as influencing their decisions or actions on behalf of the Triological Society.

Name: _____

1. Leadership Role in Other Organizations: Do you serve in a leadership capacity (e.g., Board member, committee member, advisor) for any other association, society, or foundation?

No Yes

If yes, please list.

2. Relationship with Industry: Do you or any immediate family members have any financial relationships with industry (pharmaceutical companies, equipment manufacturers, etc), including but not limited to, salary or other payments for services (e.g., board membership, consulting fees, honoraria, expert testimony, research grants, speakers bureaus, travel expenses covered or reimbursed); and intellectual property rights (e.g., patents planned, pending or issued, copyrights and royalties from such rights)?

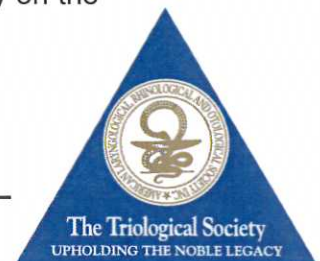

No Yes

If yes, please list all relationships, including those that were present during the 36 months prior to this application.

3. Nonfinancial Relationships: Do you have any relevant non-financial relationships, conditions and/or circumstances that may raise a conflict of interest or reflect poorly on the Laryngoscope or Triological Society?

No Yes

If yes, please explain.

THE LaryngoscopeTM
FOUNDED IN 1896